KANSAS CITY LIVE STOCK.

Kansas City Stock Yards, May 2.—The cattle market underwent a gradual softening last week, and closing prices were off 20 to 35 cents on most all kinds, with heifers showing even a greater decline sometimes. Feeders did not lose quite as much, as there is a good demand in the country for young cattle to feed, and bulls also held up almost steady. Calves fluctuated a good deal, but closed in a rut, with all their advance wiped out. The run today is 10,000 head, quite an increase over a week ago, and with other markets supplied in proportion, the natural result is lower prices today, steers 5 to 15 lower, cows and heifers steady to a shade lower. As usual on Monday, stockers and feeders are in good demand and prices are firm today. The top on heavy steers today is $7.90, in the native division, and a drove of 1,100 pound steers in the quarantine division also brought $7.90, Oklahoma corn fed steers, medium class, bring $6.50 to $7.65, and cake fed cattle from the South sell at $6.00 to $6.65 mostly, some meal fed steers today at $7.25. The range on heifers is $4.75 to $7.50, and best heavy cows bring up to $6.75. The latter have been scarce during the past week. Best veals are worth $8.75 and bulls bring $4.75 to $6.40, feeders $6.25 to $7.00, stockers $5.00 to $6.50. Prices remain about $1.50 per cwt. higher than at this time last year. The market closed a little firmer today, when it was learned that railroad washouts would prevent 100 carloads of stock reaching the yards in time for the market.

Hog receipts were at minimum figures all of last week, and although prices advanced 15 cents, it was a poor showing packers have been devoid of the buying impulse for ten days, as they claim demand for fresh meats is slack, and that they do not need the hogs. The run today is 7,000 head, market 10 to 20 lower, heavy hogs at $9.20 to $9.35, medium weights $9.10 to $9.25, and light hogs up to $9.20. This extraordinary slim receipts last week were abnormal, and unless a much wider outlet develops in the fresh meat trade, increased supplies will meet some hard knocks. Sheep and lambs declined 15 to 30 cents last week, on about normal receipts, but the downward trend was accelerated today, with the advent of 10,000 head, the closing market today taking on something of the appearance of a rout. Best clipped lambs brought $8.75 early today, but the same quality could not reach $8.50 later, and an early bid of $9.10 on choice Colorado woolled lambs could not be realized later in the day. Fair to good Texas muttons sold at $6.50 today, but this price is not considered the full strength of the market, goats worth $3.50 to $5.00. Clipped wethers are worth up to $7.50, and best ewes, clipped, around $7.00.
